SECOND PHASE OF VOTING ON WEDNESDAY

PM: TMC govt being run by party-sheltered criminals

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
Kolkata, April 26

PRIME MINISTER NARENDRA Modi on Sunday sharpened his attack on the ruling TMC in West Bengal, accusing it of fostering a culture of lawlessness, failing to protect women and relying on criminal elements to run the administration, while promising sweeping changes if the BJP comes to power after the assembly elections.

Addressing rallies in North 24 Parganas and Hooghly districts on the penultimate day of campaigning for the state polls, Modi focused on the issue of women's security in the state, maintaining that the BJP's decision to field Sandeshkhal's Rekha Patra from Hingalganj and Ratna Debnath, mother of RG Kar rape and murder victim, from Fanihati reflected "the party's commitment to justice and safety for women".

He alleged that the TMC government in Bengal is not run by the state secretariat but by "party-sheltered criminals", and added that the Mamata Banerjee-led party's "dependence on anti-social elements in ruling the state" often forces the Calcutta High Court or the Supreme Court to intervene and bring the administration back on track.

Coining an obvious antonym of Mamata Banerjee's name, the PM described the ruling dispensation as a "nimam sarkar" (cruel government) that thrives on fear and intimidation. Speaking at the Matua community citadel of Thakurnagar at Bongaon in his first rally of the day, Modi also said all refugees who took shelter in India following religious persecution in the neighbouring nation will be granted citizenship through procedures outlined under the Citizenship Amendment Act.

Citing Pahalgam, Mamata questions poll security push

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
Kolkata, April 26

WEST BENGAL CHIEF MINISTER Mamata Banerjee on Sunday alleged that while the BJP-led Centre has brought armoured vehicles for the Assembly elections in the state, it failed to prevent the terror attack at Pahalgam a year ago.

Addressing an election rally in her Rashbehari constituency in south Kolkata, Banerjee also hit out at Prime Minister Narendra Modi over his remarks that women feel unsafe in the city and other parts of the state, terming the allegations a "pack of lies".

"Over 200,000 central forces have been brought to Bengal along with armoured vehicles used by the Army in Kashmir for a state Assembly poll at the instruction of Modi and Shah. Will they explain where these vehicles and security were when Pakistan-sponsored terrorists sneaked into Pahalgam and gunned down 26 civilians?" she said at a meeting in Camac Street area.

West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee greets supporters during a road show at her constituency, Bhabanipur, on Sunday ment of forces, she said police officials' loyalty to one party "were brought in by the Election Commission to oversee polling." After May 4, these personnel may not be in charge any more, she said.

Banerjee urged women voters to remain vigilant during polling and counting, alleging attempts at manipulation. "Remember, even the central forces will be working under the instructions of the Election Commission. So even at the cost of sacrificing your cooking for two days after voting, keep a close watch on polling booths and counting centres to prevent any tampering of EVMs," she said.

Urging the men of the constituency "not to fall into the BJP's trap," she said in any situation, women should take the lead in guarding the booths in a peaceful manner, extending full cooperation to the EC and police.

Chadha couldn't have defected or split AAP if his Bill had passed

JATAN ANAND
New Delhi, April 26

IF THE FIRST legislation he had proposed as Rajya Sabha's youngest member four years ago became law, Raghu Chadha would not have been able to exit the AAP, along with six other party members of the House, and "merge with" the BJP, an announcement he made two days ago citing a two-thirds majority of AAP's House strength of 10.

In fact, had his proposed Bill been enacted, Chadha would have needed the support of seven, not six, from his party to cross over. And the present team would have been barred from contesting elections for six years after splitting the party.

Because the Constitution (Amendment) Bill that Chadha, then a trusted aide of AAP chief Arvind Kejriwal, brought to the House as Private Member's Bill on August 5, 2022 — this was three months after he entered Rajya Sabha — sought a stiffer anti-defection law, one that would require a three-fourths majority, not two-thirds, to engineer a legitimate split.

Citing "heinous floor-crossing by legislators in total disregard of the democratic wishes of the electorate who returned them", Chadha's proposed Bill sought to strengthen anti-defection norms through more stringent provisions for the Tenth Schedule of the Constitution, which pertains to disqualification of elected representatives on ground of defection.

RAGHU RAI'S FORAY into photography was rather fortuitous.

A civil engineer who was on a professional break, it was during a visit to his elder brother, photographer S Paul, in Delhi in the early 1960s that Rai was introduced to the nuances of the medium. Accompanying a friend to a village in Haryana, he took what was among his first photographs — a donkey gazing straight into the camera. Impressed by the image, Paul sent it to The Times in London, where it was published, earning Rai not just prize money but more significantly also a career in photography that was to stay with him until he passed away in Delhi on Sunday. He was 83 and had been suffering from cancer.

Tenacious, observant and deeply curious, born in Jhang (Pakistan), Rai instilled life into every photograph that he took and captured the pulse of the nation. "More than a professional photographer, I became an explorer of life," he said in an interview in 2024. Though that life has now ended, the moments he recorded will remain forever in the form of his rich archive that spans from photojournalism to documentation and portraits of some of the most recognised figures from across different fields, politics to culture.

"Some artists transcend art categories and labels and are extraordinary in the way they gather and live through the breadth of their experiences. I don't think India was explored any better or as expansively as by Raghu Rai, who was sharp and deeply incisive, and empathetic, always on the move and slept with a loaded camera next to him. Not a mere witness, the intensity with which he would seek was absolutely infectious and inspiring," says Roobina Karode, Artist Director and Chief Curator at Kiran Nadar Museum of Art (KNMA), who curated his 2024 exhibition.

Time: The Greatest Photographs of Raghu Rai, My Land and Its People, The Album: Friends and Family and Tibet in Exile. His People: His Finest Portraits brought together the little known and the well-known, including former Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, shehnai maestro Ustad Bismillah Khan, Dalai Lama, Mother Teresa and Satyajit Ray.

Pramod Kapoor, founder and publisher of Roli Books who developed a close friendship with Rai after he published his book The Sikhs in 1983, says, "He was a perfectionist, and a genius who knew what commanded attention. Fiercely critical of his own work, he would discard several of his images and shared only the best. Photography was his life's joy. Accompanying him on several shoots, I remember his impromptu singing, including songs of Kumar Gandharva, whom he deeply admired."

Rajeev Lochan, artist and former director of National Gallery of Modern Art, who presented his 2008 retrospective at the institution, recalls, "Bohemian on one side, serious on the end, he held a passion for life in every respect."
